Foreword

The Administration and Service Planning – Food Law Code of Practice (Scotland) 2020 (hereafter referred to as the Administration and Service Planning Code 2020) is issued under section 40 of the Food Safety Act 1990, regulation 24 of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006, and Regulation 6 of the Official Feed and Food Controls (Scotland) Regulations 2009. Scottish Ministers are empowered under this legislation to issue Codes of Practice (including Codes of Recommended Practice concerning the execution and enforcement of Food Law by Food Authorities). In turn, Food Authorities (may also be referred to as Enforcement Authorities and Local Authorities) are required to have regard to such Codes when discharging their duties, and follow the provisions of the Code that apply to them. Food Authorities may be directed to take specific steps in order to comply with a Code.

The Administration and Service Planning - Food Law Code of Practice (Scotland) 2020 has been created to incorporate the following changes;

- Alignment with Food Standards Scotland's Regulatory Strategy.
- Alignment to reflect Food Standards Scotland's Strategy to 2021 and the Scottish Government's approach to Better Regulation as set out in the Scottish Regulators' Strategic Code of Practice.

The role of each Food Law Code of Practices is to ensure an effective, consistent and proportionate approach to the delivery of Food Law and Official Controls by Local Authorities across Scotland, in order to protect Food Law and the wider interests of consumers.

The Food (Scotland) Act 2015 provides the primary legislation that reflects the recommendations of the Scudamore Expert Advisory Group agreed with Scottish Ministers and the Food Standards Agency in November 2013. The application of the powers of the Food (Scotland) Act 2015 are detailed within this Code.

Local Authority delivery of Food Law and Official Controls is an essential part of Scotland's infrastructure for Public Health protection. This Code sets out how Food Standards Scotland and Local Authorities will work in partnership to discharge their statutory duties and help maintain consumer confidence in the regulation of the food supply chain in Scotland.

Scotland has a thriving food and drink industry which has a strong reputation both at home and abroad, and the Code is a key component of our regulatory system to ensure the highest standards of law are maintained. Each Code of Practice clearly recognises the important role of Local Authorities in contributing to sustainable economic growth, and the need to have due regard to the principles of better regulation in the way Food Law and Official Controls are delivered.

SECTION 1 - ADMINISTRATION

1 Introduction

The statutory basis for the Food Law Code of Practice and overarching duties on Local Authorities is as follows:

1. The Administration and Service Planning Code of Practice 2020 (this Code) is issued under section 40 of the Food Safety Act 1990 (“the Act”), Regulation 24 of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 and Regulation 6 of the Official Feed and Food Controls (Scotland) Regulations 2009 which empowers the Scottish Ministers to issue Codes of Recommended Practice concerning the execution and enforcement of Food Law by Food Authorities. It replaces the relevant parts of the Food Law Code of Practice \(Scotland\) 2019 all Codes apply to Scotland only.
2. In Scotland, Food Standards Scotland (FSS) has statutory responsibilities including policy development in relation to food, advising Ministers on the arrangements necessary to meet EU requirements during the Implementation Period, monitor the performance of and promote best practice by enforcement authorities in enforcing food legislation, and on any additional national measures that are appropriate for the protection of public health or other consumer interests. Ministers may issue codes of recommended practice for the guidance of Food Authorities, as regards the execution and enforcement of the applicable Food Laws and of regulations and orders made under it. Food Authorities are required under that legislation to have regard to this Code when discharging their duties.
3. Food Standards Scotland seeks to work in partnership and to assist Local Authorities in implementing each Code of Practice. Whilst section 40(2) (a) of the Food Safety Act 1990 requires a Food Authority to have regard to the relevant provisions of the Code, section 40(3) does allow FSS to consult the Scottish Ministers in relation to non-compliance with a Code of Practice, to order the issue of a direction to that Food Authority requiring it to take steps to comply with a Code of Practice. Failure to comply with a Ministerial Direction by a Food Authority may be sanctioned by order of the Court of Session (see section 45 of the Court of Session Act 1988).
4. Food Authorities that do not have regard to relevant provisions of this Code may find their decisions or actions successfully challenged, and evidence gathered during a criminal investigation being ruled inadmissible by a court.
5. All references to legislation in this Code are made on the basis that the legislation may be subject to amendment and or revocation. The user and or reader of this Code, and any relevant corresponding guidance, must always ensure that the current legislation is referred to, in respect to any action taken in regard to Official Controls detailed in this Code; and seek their own legal advice as appropriate.

6. Guidance on Scottish Food and Feed law is available on the FSS website.
7. For the purposes of this Code the terms Food Authority, Enforcement Authority and Local Authority are interchangeable, subject to any definitions in Food Law.

2 Statutory and General Obligations on Food Authorities

This section sets out the obligations on central and local government under the Food Safety Act 1990, and other legislation on Food and Feed Law.

1. All Member States of the European Union have agreed and are obligated to enforce a consistent framework of controls on safety, composition, labelling and description of food sold and traded in any Member State. This framework is designed to protect public health and the interests of consumers and ensures that businesses can sell food produced in, or imported into, one Member State without requiring additional controls on food as it enters another Member State. Therefore the consistent application of controls by Local Authorities is essential in terms of the wellbeing of consumers, food businesses and the wider economy. This Code underpins the necessary confidence of consumers and food businesses that all food purchased or traded in Scotland is manufactured, described and handled to consistent standards, irrespective of its origin.
2. The United Kingdom (UK) left the European Union on 31 January 2020. In accordance with the Withdrawal Agreement entered into between the UK and EU, the UK is now officially a third country to the EU. The EU and the UK have agreed on a transition period, which will last until 31 December 2020, during which EU law will continue to be applicable in the United Kingdom.⁴ EU law will continue to apply after the end of the transitional period. This is achieved by taking a snapshot of all of the EU law that directly applies in the UK when the transitional period comes to an end and bringing it within the UK's domestic legal framework as a new category of law known as retained EU law. Retained EU law is a legal term introduced into UK law under the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018. It captures EU law and preserve it in law for legal continuity after the transitional period comes to an end. This means that EU Food Law will become part of our domestic Food Law and references in this Code of Practice to EU law read after 31 December 2020 should be understood as EU law as retained.⁵

⁴ European Union \(Withdrawal Agreement\) Act 2020.

⁵ A search of statutes that retain EU law can be made at www.legislation.gov.uk.

3. European Law sets out obligations that apply to all Member States in relation to the delivery of Official Food Controls⁶. These obligations apply to delivery of Official Controls by Local Authorities and include ensuring:
 - a. The effectiveness and appropriateness of Official Controls.
 - b. That controls are applied at an appropriate risk-based frequency.
 - c. That they have a sufficient number of suitably qualified and experienced competent staff and adequate facilities and equipment to carry out their duties properly.
 - d. That staff are free from conflicts of interest.
 - e. That they have access to an adequate laboratory capacity and capability for testing.
4. The statutory requirements outlined in this Code of Practice including retained EU law, should be brought to the attention of Local Authority officials and or elected member bodies responsible for agreeing budgets or other service arrangements relevant to the delivery of Official Controls.
5. In Scotland, Food Standards Scotland (FSS) has statutory responsibilities⁷ including policy development in relation to food, advising Ministers on the arrangements necessary to meet EU requirements and on any additional national measures that are appropriate for the protection of public health or other consumer interests. Ministers may issue codes of recommended practice⁸ for the guidance of Food Authorities, as regards the execution and enforcement of the applicable laws and of regulations and orders made under it.⁹ Food Authorities are required under that legislation¹⁰ to have regard¹¹ to this Code when discharging their duties. After consulting the Ministers, FSS may direct a Food Authority to take any specified steps to¹², to comply with this Code.¹³

⁹ Paragraph 1 of Section 1(Introduction) confirms that this Code of Practice is issued pursuant to the provisions of section 40 of the Food Safety Act 1990, also see footnote 1 at paragraph 1 above.

¹⁰ Food Safety Act 1990 \(c.16\).

¹¹ Section 40\(2\) \(a\) of the Food Safety Act 1990.

¹² Section 40\(2\) \(b\) of the Food Safety Act 1990.

¹³ Compliance with the Code is important to safe guard and ensure proper and consistent administration of Food and Feed law across Scotland. The FSS seeks to work in partnership with Local Authorities to help them to deliver on official control policies and Codes, and to assist local authorities in implementing the Code. Whilst section 40\(2\) \(a\) of the Food Safety Act 1990 requires a local Authority to have regard to the relevant provisions of the Code, section 40\(3\) does allow FSS to consult the Scottish Ministers in relation to non-compliance with the Code to order the issue of a direction to that Local Authority requiring it to take steps to comply with the Code. Failure to comply with a ministerial direction by a Local Authority may be sanctioned by order of the Court of Session (see section 45 of the Court of Session Act 1988).

6. FSS' statutory duties include oversight of Local Authority arrangements for the delivery of Official Controls. This includes a programme of audit of the Local Authority arrangements to meet the requirements of this and all Codes of Practice. Audit reports are produced which will include an action plan produced by the Local Authority (and agreed by FSS) to address any recommendations made. These reports including the action plans are then published online by FSS.
7. If a Food Authority finds a situation where complying with this Code might inadvertently compromise public health or safety they should discuss the matter with FSS at the earliest opportunity.
8. In Scotland Food Authorities have statutory duties to enforce legislation relating to food. Regulation 5 of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 sets out the division of enforcement responsibilities between Food Authorities and the FSS in respect of the Hygiene Regulations.
9. In addition to food safety matters, the Food Safety Act 1990 (the Act) provides protection for other consumer interests in relation to food. Under the Act, Food Authorities have statutory duties to enforce the requirements that:
 - food must be of the nature, or substance or quality demanded by the purchaser (Section 14 of the Act);
 - food must not be falsely described or labelled or advertised in a way likely to mislead as to its nature or substance or quality (Section 15 of the Act), and
 - food must not be presented in a way which is likely to mislead as to its nature or substance or quality (Section 15 of the Act).
10. Section 15B of the Act, as far as it applies to Scotland also gives Food Authorities powers to prevent the use by seizure and removal of food where it appears that Food Information Law is being or has been contravened. Authorised Officers may also seize food and remove it to have the matter dealt with by the Sheriff.
11. The purpose of enforcement is to ensure compliance with legislation relating to food in each Food Authority's area in the United Kingdom. Every Food Authority must therefore discharge its duty as effectively as possible, using means that are most appropriate to the circumstances.
12. The effective discharge of this duty relies on Authorised Officers being familiar with the law they are appointed to enforce, referring to the law itself as well as to this Code and other guidance, understanding what the law actually states and requires, and seeking guidance when either it, or they, are unclear.

13. FSS may, from time to time, issue good practice and other associated guidance for Food Authorities. Food Authorities should take account of such guidance, as well as any appropriate guidance issued by the European Commission.
14. In exercising their regulatory functions Food Authorities have a statutory duty under the Regulatory Reform (Scotland) Act 2014 to contribute to achieving sustainable economic growth, except to the extent that it would be inconsistent with the exercise of those functions. In fulfilling this statutory duty, Food Authorities must also have regard to the principles of Better Regulation as outlined in the Scottish Regulators' Strategic Code of Practice. This provides a framework for regulation in Scotland, which encourages Scottish regulators to be enablers and carry out their activities in a way that helps businesses and regulated bodies to comply and grow sustainably.
15. Food Authorities should be aware that law relating to food is not necessarily made under the Act. Law that applies to Food is also contained in and/or made under the Animal Health Act 1981¹⁴, the European Communities Act 1972¹⁵, the Consumer Protection Act 1987¹⁶, and the Consumer Protection from Unfair Trading Regulations 2008¹⁷, the Weights and Measures Act 1985¹⁸, the Medicines Act 1968¹⁹ and directly under EU Regulations.
16. Food Authorities should be aware that Article 8(5) of Regulation (EC) No 852/2004²⁰ stipulates that Guides to Good Practice²¹ drawn up pursuant to Directive 93/43/EEC²² (known in the UK as "Industry Guides to Good Hygiene Practice") shall continue to apply after the entry into force of that Regulation, provided that they are compatible with its objectives.
17. For the purposes of this Code the terms Enforcement Authority, Food Authority and Local Authority are interchangeable, subject to the specific enforcement responsibilities.

3 Inter-authority matters ground-rules for the exercise of powers of entry by Authorised Officers in other Food Authorities' areas.

3.1 Co-ordination of Advice and Enforcement

1. The co-ordination of Food Authority advice and enforcement is essential to ensure uniformity of treatment and consistency in dealing with food businesses, especially those that have branches or units situated in different Food Authority areas.
2. Food Authorities considering giving advice or taking enforcement action in relation to food businesses that have either a Home, Originating, or Primary Authority (England only) should consider whether they need to contact the relevant Food Authority before doing so. This would normally be necessary, for example, where the advice or enforcement action relates to centrally agreed policies or procedures of a food business. It might not be necessary, however, where such action relates to matters of an exclusively local nature.
3. Food Authorities in England and Wales may become the Primary Authority²³ for a Food Business Operator (FBO) that has establishments in more than one Local Authority area. The Primary Authority scheme in relation to food does not extend to Scotland. Scottish Local Authorities continue to work within the Home Authority principal²⁴ that extends UK wide.

3.2 Operating in other areas

1. Local Authorities in Scotland are designated as Food Authorities under Section 5 of the Act. Where Scottish Ministers are satisfied that a Food Authority has failed to discharge any duty imposed by or under the Act, where that failure affects the general interests of consumers of food, they may by order empower another Food Authority, FSS or officer of the Ministers to discharge that duty in place of the Food Authority in default, and recover costs from the defaulting Authority.
2. A Food Authority should normally deal with matters arising in its area of jurisdiction. However, Regulation 14(1) (b) of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 in respect of Food Hygiene and Section 32(1) (b) of the Act in respect of Food Standards, permit Authorised Officers from a Food Authority to exercise their powers of entry in another Food Authority's area in order to ascertain whether there is in those establishments any evidence of law breaking within their own Food Authority's area.

²³The Public register for Primary Authorities in England is maintained by the Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy (BEIS)

²⁴ I.e. the Local Authority in whose area where the relevant decision making base of a FBO is located.

3. When exercising these powers, Authorised Officers should liaise with the relevant Food Authority for the area they are visiting, in advance wherever possible. This applies whether or not the business being visited is a food business. If it is not possible to give prior notice to the Food Authority in which the business is located, for example in an emergency or out-of-hours, the Food Authority should be notified as soon as practicable thereafter.
4. Authorised Officers exercising these powers should not give advice or recommend changes to a company's systems or procedures unless they relate to issues that apply to Food Business Establishments within their Food Authority area. Such matters should be passed to the Food Authority for the area for appropriate action.
5. Authorised Officers exercising powers of entry in food businesses outside their own area must not exercise any enforcement powers other than those associated with their powers of entry, which includes taking samples in connection with the investigation of suspected offences within their own area. Other enforcement powers, which include the seizure or detention of food, must only be exercised by Authorised Officers of the Food Authority in which the business is located²⁵.

3.3 Regional and Local Liaison

1. Food Authorities should be represented at an appropriate level of seniority, normally by the relevant Lead Food Officer or Authorised Officers, at meetings of regional or local food liaison groups, to help maintain enforcement consistency with other Competent Authorities.
2. Food Authorities should ensure that local liaison groups include appropriate representation from each Food Authority area, and from Food Examiners and Public Analysts. Representation from FSS, the Consultant in Public Health Medicine Communicable Disease/Environmental Health (CD/EH) and other experts or specialists should be considered as appropriate.
3. Matters of legal interpretation and consistency should be discussed with colleagues in the appropriate regional or local food liaison group and the Home Authority and / or Originating Authority, if appropriate. Food Authorities should avoid taking unilateral decisions on interpretations without seeking the views of other Food Authorities, the Scottish Food Enforcement Liaison Committee (SFELC) or in relation to England the Local Government Association (LGA).
4. Groups of Home Authorities serving food businesses trading in the same sector of the industry should undertake regular liaison to ensure that the advice given by Home Authorities across a sector is consistent.

²⁵ Walkers Snack Foods Ltd v Coventry City Council (1998) 3 A11 ER 163 refers

5. Food Authorities where there are commercial shellfish harvesting activities should refer to sub-section 36.2 of the Food Law Code of Practice (Scotland) 2019 and the Food Law Practice Guidance for liaison arrangements.

3.4 Enforcement liaison arrangements between District and County Council Food Authorities in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

1. Scottish Food Authorities should be mindful of the following arrangements in England and Wales when liaising with these Authorities during investigations into Food Law infringements.
2. Microbiological quality and contamination:- In some areas of England and Wales there are two tiers of local government, District and County Councils and each tier is a Food Authority. District Council Food Authorities investigate and take enforcement action in cases relating to the microbiological quality of food, contamination by micro-organisms and their toxins and contamination by foreign matter.
3. Chemical contamination and compositional and labelling standards:- In the areas of England and Wales in which there are two tiers of local government and each tier is a Food Authority, County Council Food Authorities investigate and take enforcement action in cases relating to chemical contamination (other than when this presents an imminent risk to health - see below)
4. In situations where the presence of chemical contaminants may pose an imminent risk to public health, the District Council Food Authority investigate and take enforcement action, but should also liaise closely with the County Council Food Authority.
5. County Council Food Authorities investigate and take enforcement action in cases that involve the adulteration, composition, advertisement, presentation and labelling of food, apart from the identification marking requirements of Food Hygiene Regulations which are enforced by District Council Food Authorities.

4 Qualifications and Competence

1. This section covers the qualifications and competency of Authorised Officers of Food Authorities who carry out Interventions (including official controls which ensure compliance with Food Law). It details the implementation of the qualification and training provisions of Regulation (EU) 2017/625.²⁶
2. This section does not apply to staff who have only indirect managerial responsibility for the Food Authority's Food Law enforcement service such as Chief Executive, Director or Chief Officer, or to those employed in a support role such as administrative and legal staff.
3. If a Food Authority needs to engage expertise in an area listed in Chapter 1 of Annex II of Regulation (EU) 2017/625²⁷, it should ensure that any expert it engages has a recognised qualification, relevant experience and competency in the area for which the expertise is required.

4.1 General Qualification and Experience Requirements

1. Food Authorities must set up, maintain and implement a documented procedure for the authorisation of officers.
2. The Act allows for the authorisation of officers, in writing, either generally or specially to act in matters arising under the Act or Regulations made under the Act. However, officers performing duties under the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006²⁸ and the Official Feed and Food Controls (Scotland) Regulations 2009,²⁹ need to be separately authorised in writing to deal with matters arising under these implementing Regulations, e.g. issues under the 'specified community provisions'. With regard to other specific food Regulations made under the European Communities Act 1972, where appropriate, relevant officers should be specially authorised for each of those Regulations.
3. Food Authorities should ensure that officers they authorise in accordance with their documented procedure to carry out enforcement under the Food Law are:
 - a. Suitably qualified; and
 - b. Experienced; and

- c. Competent to carry out the range of tasks and duties they are required to perform³⁰.
4. This applies equally to those who are directly employed, to temporary staff and to those employed by or as contractors.
5. There may be other qualifications that are equivalent to those specifically set out in this Code. In such instances the relevant professional or awarding body, which in Scotland is the Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland ('REHIS'), must be approached to consider these cases.
6. Existing or prospective Food Authority officers may also have a range of qualifications, additional training and experience that together indicate their competence to undertake specific enforcement activities identified in this Code. In such cases the relevant professional and awarding bodies should be approached directly by either the existing Food Authority employer or prospective employer for an assessment of equivalence.
7. Nationals from countries in the European Economic Area have a right under EU law to the recognition of qualifications and experience and competency gained outside the UK. This situation may arise if an individual seeks employment in the UK as a Public Analyst, Food Examiner or Authorised Officer, having acquired relevant qualifications and work experience in their home country. Food Authorities should accept suitable non-UK qualifications and experience in order to give effect to these EU rights. The equivalence of non-UK qualifications will be determined by organisations recognised by the Department for Business, Energy, and Industrial Strategy (BEIS) for the purposes of Directive 2005/36/EC³¹. Food Authorities should make enquiries with the relevant professional and awarding bodies if they have any doubts regarding equivalence of qualifications in this area before confirming an appointment.

4.2 New Appointments

1. Food Authorities should not authorise new officers, or extend the duties of currently employed officers, unless they are qualified and competent in accordance with the relevant provisions of this section and they meet any relevant additional requirements relating to specific duties or enforcement responsibilities.

4.3 Training

1. Food Authorities must ensure that Authorised Officers receive relevant and structured on-going training. Training should explain new legislation, procedures and technological developments relevant to food businesses subject to their inspection. All relevant CPD must be suitably documented and evidenced with an overview and breakdown of the training undertaken.

2. The minimum on-going training should be 10 hours per year based on the principles of Continuing Professional Development (CPD).
3. Officers must be provided with appropriate training to ensure that their competencies are maintained in relation to new food related technologies and emerging Food Law risks as necessary.

5 Conflicts of Interest

5.1 Introduction

This section deals with issues to be considered in ensuring that Food Authorities and their Authorised Officers are impartial and free from conflicts of interest.

5.2 Avoiding Potential Conflicts of Interest

1. Article 5(1)(c) of Regulation (EU) 2017/625 requires that staff performing official controls and other official activities are free from any conflict of interest. Food Authorities should document that their officers are aware of potential conflicts of interest that may arise in an enforcement situation through promotion of the Food Authority's services.
2. Authorised Officers should not provide consultancy, training or other services in their own time within the Local Authority area in which they are employed. Where such work is undertaken out with the Local Authority, written permission from the senior official in their Local Authority should be sought. Any decision to allow such work must take any conflicts of interest into consideration.
3. Food Authorities should ensure that potential or actual conflicts of interest do not arise as a result of Home or Originating Authority responsibilities and contracting in services for enforcement purposes.
4. Food Authorities and their Authorised Officers should avoid promoting the Food Authority's services exclusively if other providers of those services exist in the area.
5. Pest Control and Food Law training are examples of local Food Authority services that may be provided in competition with those supplied by other organisations.
6. Where a Food Authority delegates enforcement to an independent third party ("delegated body"⁴³) then the Competent Authority must obtain proof that the delegated body is impartial and free from any conflict of interest as regards the tasks delegated to it.

⁴³ See Article 28\(1\) of Regulation 2017/625

5.3 Enforcement within Local Authority Run Establishments

1. The Food Authority's Food Law Enforcement Policy (see sub-section 14.4⁴⁴) should detail the Food Authority's arrangements for ensuring compliance with Food Law in premises where the Food Authority is itself the proprietor of a food business and the steps taken to ensure enforcement decisions are free from any conflict of interest.
2. Any serious breaches of Food Law that may be detected in such establishments should be brought to the attention of the Chief Executive or delegated deputy of the Food Authority without delay.
3. Caterers that operate within Local Authority establishments should be assessed in accordance with FLRS and the intervention frequency determined accordingly.

6 Communication

6.1 Disclosure of information

1. There will be circumstances in dealing with communications when confidentiality, data protection and human rights issues arise. In such circumstances the Food Authority must apply the law and general principles set out in relevant legislation and case law to the specific facts with which they are dealing. This is best done at a local level unless it involves the sharing of information with FSS. In such circumstances FSS and the Food Authority should liaise with each other and their respective legal departments if required.

2. Such communications may be by letter, e-mail, or other communication platforms, and will be clearly identified as communications to which this section applies. They will be sequentially referenced and include details of any action required to be taken by the Food Authority.

⁴⁴ Food Law Code of Practice \(Scotland\) 2019

⁴⁵ Where it remains relevant to Scotland.

3. Food Authorities should have arrangements in place to determine what action is appropriate locally on receipt of such communications and to bring them to the attention of their Authorised Officers if necessary.

7.3 Enforcement Consistency

1. The consistent application and enforcement of Food Law by Food Authorities is essential to ensure the protection of consumers and the fair treatment of food businesses.
2. Food Authorities should therefore have due regard to enforcement guidance issued by, jointly with, or on behalf of the FSS/FSA.
3. The Food Authority should have regard to any advice issued by the Scottish Food Enforcement Liaison Committee (SFELC).

However, this does not preclude direct contacts, exchange of information or co-operation between the staff of Food Authorities in different Member States.
2. Trans-border matters that may have policy implications, matters relating to outbreaks of potential food-borne illness and matters connected with food hazards are dealt with by the FSA. In Scotland, FSS will act as a conduit for communications between Food Authorities and FSA. Food Authorities must therefore notify the FSS of all such matters at the earliest opportunity.

3. Detailed provisions on administrative assistance and co-operation with other Member States are set out in Articles 102 to 106 of Regulation (EU) 2017/625.

10.2 Trans-border Matters

1. Trans-border matters fall into three broad categories:

 - B. Trans-border matters reported to the FSA (via FSS) after liaison has taken place.
 - C. Routine liaison between Food Authorities and food control authorities in other Member States.

10.3 Category A. Trans-border matters

1. Trans-border matters (Category A) to be referred directly to the FSA (via FSS) are as follows:
 - a. The identification of foods which appear to pose a risk to public health or safety,

 - g. Where repeated non-compliance has been identified in connection with different batches, lots or consignments from the same source.

10.4 Category B. Trans-border matters

- c. Circumstances in which it appears that elements of the national Food Law of one Member State conflicts with that of another,
- d. Any issue listed for information which, after investigation, liaison or enquiry, appears to have such implications or is of such a serious nature that the FSA (via FSS) should be informed of it.

10.5 Category C. Routine Liaison between Local Food Control Authorities of Member States

1. Food Authorities should only deal directly with “For Information” matters. Other issues requiring action should be referred without delay to the FSA (via FSS). Food Authorities should seek advice from the FSS if there is doubt as to the appropriate procedure for dealing with a particular trans-border matter.
2. Matters of routine liaison between local food control authorities of Member States under Category C would include:
 - a. Enquiries about a particular product which has been analysed and found to have no food safety implications,
 - b. Enquiries about a product label or description which appears to be in breach of requirements,
 - c. If necessary enquiries about sampling records, company history or control systems likely to support legal action,
 - d. Enquiries to establish the integrity of documents, problem source and to avoid duplicating sampling or inspections,
 - e. Enquiries into the particular circumstances surrounding the rejection of, or cause for enforcement action relating to, a specific UK food product; and
 - f. Notification of other faults and infringements unlikely to require UK or Scottish action, but which are for note or action by the Authority in another EC Member State.

10.6 Enquiries to EU Member States

1. Food Authorities should address enquiries about Food Law enforcement issues in EU Member States to the appropriate liaison body or authority in the EU Member State concerned, either via the FSS or directly to FSA. FSS can provide assistance in identifying the relevant liaison body or authority if necessary.
2. Food Authorities should carry out a full investigation prior to referring a matter to the FSS with full supporting documentation.

10.7 Enquiries from EU Member States

1. Food Authorities should comply with any reasonable request for information or administrative assistance from another Food Authority, Food Control Body, or EU Member State. In doing so they should take the following action:
 - a. Acknowledge receipt of the request and advise the originating party that it is being dealt with,
 - b. Investigate if necessary,
 - c. Take appropriate enforcement action, if necessary,
 - d. Inform the originating party of the results of any enquiries, inspections, or other enforcement action, either directly or through FSS,
 - e. Ensure that responses to requests are open, helpful and provided without undue delay; and
 - f. Keep the originating party updated on progress when action is on-going and the outcome will not be known for some time.
2. Any request for information which, after investigation, liaison or enquiry, appears to be of a serious nature should be referred to FSS.

10.8 Disclosure of Information to EU Member States

1. Articles 8 and 11 of Regulation (EU) 2017/625 sets out the general requirements in respect of transparency and confidentiality. Detailed provisions on administrative assistance and co-operation with EU Member States are set out in Articles 102 to 106 of Regulation (EU) 2017/625. Article 102 stipulates that Articles 103 to 108 of that Regulation, which deal with administrative assistance and co-operation between Member States “applicable to the release of documents and information that are the object of, or related to, judicial investigations and court proceedings, including criminal investigations; and aimed at the protection of natural or legal persons’ commercial interests.” Food Authorities should therefore ensure that any release of information is compatible with Freedom of Information and data protection legislation.

11 Crown and Police Premises

11.1 Introduction

1. This section concerns the approach to enforcement in Crown premises and in premises that are occupied by the police. It does not apply to premises that are occupied by the National Health Service (NHS) or NHS Trusts since these are not Crown premises. Information on military ships and aircraft and Home Authority contacts for the Army, Royal Navy and Royal Air Force are provided in sub-section 30.4⁵¹.
2. If the premises occupied by Police Scotland are owned by the Local Authorities and are not Crown premises, they are to be treated for these purposes in the same way as Crown premises.

11.2 Powers of Entry Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006

1. The powers of entry under Regulation 14 of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 may be used in relation to Crown premises.
2. The Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 do not contain the specific exemptions for certain members of the Royal Family or certain Royal residences as afforded by the Act, Food Authorities should use discretion when exercising their powers in respect of Crown premises.
3. In practice, Food Authorities should adopt the same approach to the enforcement of the Food Hygiene (Scotland) Regulations 2006 in respect of Crown premises as they do in respect of the Act.

11.3 Powers of Entry (under the Act)

1. The powers of entry under Section 32 of the Act may be used, in respect of Food Law standards issues, in relation to Crown premises (subject to exemptions for certain members of the Royal Family and certain Royal residences). However, a national security certificate may have been issued by a Secretary of State or Scottish Ministers certifying that powers of entry under the Act cannot be exercised. If an Authorised Officer seeks entry to Crown premises and is informed that such a certificate has been issued, the officer may ask to see the certificate or a copy of it.

⁵¹ Food Law Code of Practice \(Scotland\) 2019

11.4 Obtaining Entry to Crown and Police Premises

1. For the purposes of obtaining entry, Crown and police premises fall broadly into three categories, as seen below, although premises may move from one category to another between inspections.

Category 1 - includes premises situated on Crown land where there are normally no security implications, e.g. restaurants in museums or Royal Parks. These premises should be treated like any other food business. Category 1 premises should normally be visited without prior arrangement.

Category 2 - includes premises with controlled entry but normally minimal security implications. Most government and police premises fall within this category. They are similar to many private businesses with security systems. First visits to Category 2 premises should be by prior arrangement. Future visits may be unannounced, but arrangements for subsequent visits should be agreed at the first inspection and confirmed in writing.

Category 3 – includes premises where unannounced entry is not possible because of security implications and/or for the personal safety of the Authorised Officer, e.g. HM Forces, defence and national security establishments, prisons, remand centres, and parts of police premises that accommodate prisoners. Category 3 premises should always be visited by prior arrangement with the appropriate contact at the establishment concerned, e.g. the defence establishment security officer, the commanding officer or nominated representative of an HM Forces establishment, the Governor of a prison service establishment, or the officer in charge of police premises. This will enable the Authorised Officer to obtain entry without undue delay. The contact may be reminded of the power of entry if an Authorised Officer considers that the suggested appointment is too far in advance.

2. Authorised Officers who have not been security cleared will be subject to visitor control procedures and may be escorted at all times. Authorised Officers should carry an identity card that incorporates their photograph.
3. Authorised Officers should bear in mind that there may be times when it will not be possible for an inspection to take place or continue in Category 3 premises. Any such reasonable restriction should not be regarded as obstruction.
4. The Authorised Officer's name, date of birth, card or pass number (if any) and the registration number of the officer's motor vehicle should be given in advance of a visit to Category 3 premises, if required.
5. If the Food Authority is in doubt as to how to classify particular premises to which this section applies, they should be treated as Category 3 premises and reviewed at a later stage, if necessary.

6. An incident such as a foodborne disease outbreak may require an Authorised Officer to visit premises at short notice even though prior notice would normally be required. A telephone notification that the officer is on the way is essential in Category 3 premises, and may save time in gaining entry to Category 2 premises. It should not normally be necessary in such circumstances to give more than the briefest notice of such a visit.

11.5 Conduct

1. Authorised Officers should be aware of matters of confidentiality when visiting those parts of premises that accommodate prisoners. Such matters may be discussed when the visit is arranged.
2. Inspections should be confined to areas used by the food business or where records relating to it are held, unless the visit is connected with the investigation of an outbreak of food-borne illness and it is necessary, as part of the investigation, to inspect other areas.
3. Military activities should not be impeded or interrupted by a visit.
4. Authorised Officers should conform to the security requirements of the establishment concerned, including baggage inspections and identity checks.

11.6 Photographs

1. The consent of the prison Governor is necessary before bringing a camera into a Scottish prison. In addition no person viewing the prison shall be permitted to take a photograph or sketch unless authorised to do so by the Governor. Therefore before taking any photographs, making sketches or taking measurements on Category 3 premises, the Authorised Officer should seek the necessary permissions and discuss such matters with the escorting officer taking account of any requirements. Unless absolutely necessary to illustrate a possible contravention of the legislation, photographs on Category 3 premises should not include individuals. It should not be possible to identify any individual from any photograph taken within a prison or remand establishment.

11.7 Liaison with the Home Authority and or FSA/FSS

1. Food Authorities should report any difficulties encountered in the enforcement of Food Law in premises to which this section applies to the appropriate Home Authority or, if there is no Home Authority, to FSS.

ANNEX 2: Official Food Controls Service Plan Guidance

1 Introduction

1. This guidance provides Local Authorities with a service plan template, to ensure that all the areas of Official Controls are included in the plan, whilst also allowing scope for locally defined objectives. The template will ensure that local authorities include in their service plans:
 - a. information about the services they provide;
 - b. the means by which they will provide those services;
 - c. the means by which they will meet any relevant performance targets or performance standards; and
 - d. a review of performance, in order to address any variance from meeting the requirements of the service plan and identification of areas for improvement.

2 Scottish Government's Better Regulation

1. Local authorities should take account of the Government's Better Regulation agenda and the Scottish Regulators' Strategic Code of Practice when planning and delivering their services. Regulators should adopt the following high level operational approaches:
 - a. Adopt a positive enabling approach in pursuing outcomes that contribute to sustainable economic growth.
 - b. In pursuing their core regulatory remit be alive to other interests, including relevant community and business interests; taking business factors appropriately and proportionately into account in their decision making processes; and protecting public health and safety.
 - c. Adopt risk and evidence based protocols which help target action where it's needed and help to ensure the achievement of measurable outcomes.
 - d. Develop effective relationships with those they regulate and have clear two-way communication in place.
 - e. Tailor their approach depending on the nature of the sector they are regulating and the desired outcomes. This includes a commitment to advice and support for those who seek to comply, allied with robust and effective enforcement when justified.
 - f. Recognise, in their policies and practice, a commitment to the five principles of better regulation: regulation should be transparent, accountable, consistent, proportionate and targeted only where needed.
 - g. Pursue continuous improvement in regulatory practice based on the principles of better regulation.

2. The Scottish Regulators' Strategic Code of Practice includes a number of principles which Local authorities will need to take account of in their Service plans.
3. The targeting of resources where they are most effective and at areas of highest risk is essential in providing the public with an effective service. It is the desired outcome, which may alter with changing circumstances that should be the key influence when Local Authorities are selecting the appropriate Interventions to be used. Attention should be given to longer term outcomes as well as short-term ones.

3 Common Format

1. Service Plans are an expression of Local Authorities' own commitment to the development of the Food Service. However, it is also important to consider the use made of the plans by the FSS, which will require information about Official Food control activities in a common format to enable it to assess local authorities' delivery of the service. In addition, service plans may be of use to other local authorities who will find analysis and comparison of their relative performance greatly facilitated by a common format. The guidelines are therefore structured in terms of a common format – with chapter and subject headings specified - and a general description of the content that should form part of each. There is no intention to remove Local Authority flexibility to include additional items under particular headings.
2. It is recognised that Local Authorities have had service plans for many years, and may have corporate style or templates that they wish to maintain. It is also recognised that some Local Authorities undertake the planning and review processes at separate times and issue the results of review as a separate document. Some Local Authorities include their plans for the food delivery service as part of a larger plan of Authority services. While there is flexibility for Local Authorities to continue with a corporate format, they shall ensure that the information requirements in this guidance are included.
3. Authorities should cover at least the following areas in their service plans for delivery of Official Controls:
 - a. Service Aims and Objectives
 - b. Background
 - c. Service Delivery
 - d. Resources
 - e. Quality Assessment

f. Review

4 Local Governance Approval

1. Authorities have the flexibility to decide locally whether or not service plans should be approved at local governance level. To help to ensure local transparency and accountability, and to show their contribution to the Food Authority's corporate plan, food service plans and performance reviews should be approved at the relevant level established for that Local Authority, whether that is Member, Member forum, or suitably delegated senior officer level. Records should be kept to show that service plans and annual reviews have received appropriate approval in a timely manner.
